Bowser Companies: 1.4%

Performance for major indices varied for the short week as technology stocks lagged. Despite selloffs from some of the largest companies in the world, energy and basic materials stocks gained. Strength from commodities continued and natural gas soared to its highest levels since November 2008.

Bowser stocks (down 1.4% for the week) pulled back slightly due to the weakness from growth stocks. Headlines were scarce due to the holiday, but there are plenty of recommendations reporting earnings in the coming weeks. One Stop Systems (OSS) was the top gainer following unusually high trading volume.

Company Headlines

- Monday: No significant headlines.
- Tuesday: ClearOne (CLRO) appointed Sound Marketing West to serve as its newest manufacturer representative in California, Nevada, and Hawaii. Mace Security Int'l (MACE) announced that Jayne E. Juvan decided to resign from its board of directors. Safe Bulkers (SB) entered into an agreement for the acquisition of a 2012-built, Chinese, dry-bulk, Capesize class vessel. WaveDancer (WAVD) reported revenue of $15 million for the fiscal year, up 8% from $13.9 million in 2020.
- Wednesday: No significant headlines.
- Thursday: MariMed (MRMD) announced that the Maryland Medical Cannabis Commission has approved the transfer of 100% of the ownership of Kind Therapeutics U.S.A., LLC, a leading vertically integrated cannabis business to MRMD.
- Friday: The stock market was closed in observance of Good Friday.

Bowser Notes

Growth stocks continued to lag this week, with the technology sector diving once again. This month's newsletter issue highlights a simple method to rebalance your portfolio in order to avoid that weakness entirely. Earnings over the next few weeks will also be telling as many of the largest companies will need to outpace booming earnings from the prior year.

One Stop Systems (OSS) shares continued to gain from its strong earnings report three weeks ago. Since then, the company has presented at an investing conference and received positive analyst coverage. We are expecting an action-packed upcoming two weeks as NINE more recommendations are set to report earnings!
