Bowser Companies: 0.4%

Equities closed out 2022 flat and major indices traded on low overall volume. There was some notable sell pressure early in the week, which was met with a rally on Thursday and Friday. The macroeconomic data releases were insignificant and the dust has settled prior to the Federal Reserve meeting in one month.

Bowser stocks (down 0.4% for the week) also traded on low relative volume due to a lack of headlines. Bottom bouncers were among the top performers, and WaveDancer (WAVD) was the obvious laggard. Dynagas LNG Partners LP (DLNG) shares recovered the recent drop due to multiple press releases.

Company Headlines

- Monday: The stock market was closed in observance of Christmas.
- Tuesday: No significant headlines.
- Wednesday: Clean Energy Fuels (CLNE) entered into a four-year $150 million sustainability-linked senior secured term loan.
- Thursday: No significant headlines.
- Friday: BGC Partners (BGCP) updated its fourth quarter revenue guidance to be above the midpoint of the range of its previously stated outlook. Dynagas LNG Partners LP (DLNG) released its inaugural 2021 environmental, social and governance (ESG) report, highlighting its ESG priorities, goals and performance. DLNG also entered into a new time charter party agreement with Equinor ASA for the employment of the 2013 built ice class LNG carrier Arctic Aurora.

Bowser Notes

Dynagas LNG Partners LP (DLNG) shares bounced from their recent 52-week low following two press releases. The more significant headline consisted of a new time charter party agreement for a 2013 built ice class LNG carrier Arctic Aurora. Under the new time charter agreement, the Arctic Aurora is will be delivered September 2023, meaning there will be no lapse of time between the current and the new time charter.

Despite their strength on Friday, energy recommendations lagged to end 2022. These were among some of the strongest names at the start of the year, which indicates sector rotation among small stocks. Casino stocks and bottom bouncers were among the top performers and swam against the current. As we kick off the New Year, it is beneficial to keep an eye on sector performance as it can be indicative of future price performance.
